YOUNG CLERGYMAN

A young clergyman, fresh out of seminary, thought it would help him to better understand the fears and temptations his future congregations faced if he first took a job as a policeman for several months. He passed the physical examination; then came the oral exam to test his ability to act quickly and wisely in an emergency.

Among other questions, he was asked, "What would you do to disperse a frenzied crowd?"

He thought for a moment and then said, "I would take up a collection."

WE WERE COPS by Richard J. May www.richauthor.com

We watch them passing silently and mostly all alone
 The long blue line of heroes past, the bravest ever known
 One by one, they slip from us to join a growing throng
 Their stories differ, still they're heard as one familiar song

Once a youngster with a dream, they joined and proudly served
 Protecting every citizen, from meek to undeserved
 Fearlessly they faced their tasks and suffered untold pain
 That streets and playgrounds, homes and parks remained a safe terrain

Knowing they'd be criticized and often second-guessed
 Their every move thus scrutinized, they did their very best
 They looked after one another and silently stood tall
 Never knowing if that day would be their last roll call

Facing odds against survival, pitfalls at every turn
 Cheerfully and loyally each day they would return
 Most times their jobs were thankless and strained their every nerve
 But standing firm together, they would protect and serve

So proud to have been one of them, these finest in the land
 And knowing that there'll come a day we form a final band
 To plead our case for just rewards to Heaven's highest court
 And answer simply, "We were cops," when asked for our report

Food, Family, and Philosophy

A young man is about to go on his first date and is nervous about what to talk about. He asks his father for advice. The father replies: "My son, there are three subjects that always work. These are food, family, and philosophy."

The boy picks up his date and they go to a soda fountain. Ice cream sodas in front of them, they stare at each other for a long time, as the boy's nervousness builds. He remembers his father's advice, and chooses the first topic. He asks the girl: "Do you like potato pancakes?" She says "No," and the silence returns.

After a few more uncomfortable minutes, the boy thinks of his father's suggestion and turns to the second item on the list. He asks, "Do you have a brother?" Again, the girl says "No" and there is silence once again.

The boy then plays his last card. He thinks of his father's advice and asks the girl the following question: "If you had a brother, would he like potato pancakes?"
