Rob Murphy, You Really ARE a Hero!

This past weekend, my colleagues and I were touched by an act of human kindness that none of us will ever forget.

While walking his dog on Saturday night, May 16, Rob Murphy noticed a porch of a house on fire and the decision he made next saved many lives. Since that heroic effort in which Mr. Murphy alerted 5 people in total to the fire and managed to help them all get out safely, he has been quoted as saying, "I am not a hero and that I just did what anyone would have done."

You are wrong, Mr. Murphy. Not many people would have put their own safety on the line for people they did not know. You went into not one, but two burning homes, and you were instrumental in saving the lives of everyone inside both of these homes.

They say that true heroes are humble about their accomplishments and do not want to be recognized for their efforts as I think is the case with Mr. Murphy. But to us, Rob Murphy, you ARE a hero. You are the reason that we still have our dear friend and colleague with us today. For that, Rob Murphy, we are forever grateful to you.
